

THE GAZETTE.

SATURDAY OCTOBER 8.

Wing Lee, a naturalized Celestial, is running for councilman in Baltimore. It is elected he will be an improvement on the Eugene Higgins gang, at any rate.

There are seven state tickets in the field in New York, the latest being that of the greenbackers. Voters there will enjoy a variety that the counters of the votes will not relish.

Governor Martin, of Kansas, had a narrow escape from an Atchinson editor's pistol, a few nights ago. Those Kansas and Nebraska editors seem to be trying to rival their Texas brethren.

The widow of the late Senator Matt H. Carpenter, with her son and daughter, has arrived at Watertown, N.Y., from a year's sojourn in Europe, to visit her father, ex-Governor Dillingham, of Watertown. She will then return to her home in Milwaukee.

The liberty of the press in Germany is not dangerously liberal in its extent. A Berlin editor wrote in a column of "Prussia's Bismarck's false and insulting accusations against the liberals, which the latter are so accustomed to hear that they are no longer excited thereby." And the editor is now languishing in jail under a sentence of three months' imprisonment.

According to a New York paper, the fire losses in the United States in September amounted to $7,927,000. In September of last year they were $6,600,000. In nine months of the current year the losses by fire reached the enormous aggregate of $93,193,500, being nearly $10,000,000 more than in the corresponding nine months of 1886.

With a parade of nearly every militia company in the city, of his fire department, several thousand citizens and over 300 wheelmen, a continuous blaze of fireworks for an hour, and a big "outpouring" of people, the city of Washington Thursday night publicly welcomed ex-Gov. Alexander F. Shepard back to his native city after a long sojourn in Mexico.

The American Board of Foreign Missions of the Congregational church, at its session at Springfield, Mass., yesterday, after an all-day's spirited debate pro and con, finally came to a vote upon the question of the so-called "new theology" of the Andover Theological Seminary—that those theists who die without a knowledge of the Christian plan of salvation are not necessarily beyond the hope of salvation. The new doctrine was rejected by a large majority.

In 1882 there were 474 national and state banks in the south, with an aggregate capital of $81,737,650. Since that time there has been a notable increase, the record for this year showing 736 banks with a capital of $114,837,517. Private banks with an unknown aggregate have increased in number during the same period from 300 to 337. The lack of capital has been one of the greatest drawbacks to the development of a very rich section, and with the influx of money still greater progress should be made.

Dr. Spencer, in the Methodist conference at Appleton—Eighty years ago there was one Protestant church member to every fifteen people; now every fifteen persons in the country is a Methodist and every fifth person is a Protestant church member. Thus Christianity varies. He said also that if Methodists wish to stop the call for help to build churches, let preachers conform to a second probation and that Genesis is a myth and soon Methodism would have thousands of churches for sale.

The skeleton of a man was raised by a dredge near Polk street, Chicago, on Thursday. The dead man was evidently of the better class, as his overcoat was of fine material and was trimmed with costly fur. The pockets, or some of them, were turned inside out and there was no vestige of a letter or a scrap of paper, which could lead to identification. It is the opinion of those experienced in such matters that the man was weighed down so that his body could not rise to the surface, as it otherwise would have done in a few days. The clothing and the fur-trimmed coat gave evidence that the body had been in the water since last winter.

The political campaign in New York this fall is perhaps the most interesting and exciting that has occurred in that state for many years. Besides the republican and democratic tickets, there are in the field two labor tickets; and the prohibitionists are also represented by a full ticket, and last comes the greenback party with a complete state ticket. Both the republicans and democrats are confident of success. Vigorous efforts are being made by Henry George and his associates, and, though they do not expect to elect their ticket, they are certain of polling a large enough vote to defeat the democratic ticket. The prohibitionists, however, are rapidly deserting their candidates and joining the republican ranks as the platform adopted by the republican convention is generally endorsed. The indications are that the republican ticket will be elected by at least 20,000 majority.

Commenting on the legal delays in the Sharp case, the New York Tribune voices public sentiment when it says: "The public has two complaints to make against the courts. They are very slow in bringing guilty men to punishment, and often they seem to deal differently with rich prisoners than with poor ones." The popular murmur upon these allegations is growing louder, sterner and more general all the time. Sharp's crime was committed in the summer of 1884; we are now close upon the threshold of 1888, and his fate still remains in question. All due diligence, it must be said, was used in obtaining his conviction. But the proceedings since then have all been disappointing to the public. Nobody wants to see an innocent man suffer unjustly. But here is a rich criminal, convicted after a long, tedious trial, staying off the day of his punishment by means which no poor man can command. The argument to be heard to day is the third delivered since his conviction, and still another remains to be made. This is a sore trial of public patience. In view of the fact that the court of appeals will meet in a few days anyhow, Judge Rogers' stay is the more open to objection. It is to be hoped that he will not require much time in perceiving the fallacies of the defense, and that he will render his decision as promptly as did Judge Daniels in the Joebach case, permitting this conviction to be carried out.

Hon. R. B. Gelaat, of Kansas City, after talking with independent politicians, says that he has deliberately come to the conclusion that "Mugwumpery is a delusion, and the democratic pretense of reform is a fraud." He reaches that conclusion after witnessing the antics of Cleveland against two state conventions. He says: "Cleveland forbade an officer-holder in Pennsylvania from attending the Allentown convention, because he is a friend of Randall's and might assist him in the convention. Cleveland put his order on high moral ground, forbidding federal officials from taking active part in politics. But, when the convention was held in New York state, the state which was expected to endorse him and his administration; that convention was filled with federal officials, fellows who live by virtue of the clemency of Cleveland, and they controlled the convention and endorsed their master's record and predicted great things for him. Think of the open hypocrisy of it, and then wonder, if you can, why I say that mugwumpery is a delusion and democratic pretense of reform a fraud."

A call has been issued for a general conference of all evangelical Christians in the United States, to be held at Washington, D. C., December 7, 8 and 9, to consider several leading questions, among which are the following: What are the present perils and opportunities of the Christian church, and of the country? Can any of them be met best by a hearty non-operation of all evangelical Christians, without detriment to any denominational interests, and save the welfare of the whole church? What are the best means to secure such co-operation and to awaken the whole church to its responsibility? The Inter-Ocean says the call directs attention to the close of the nineteenth century as a proper time to see the planting of Christian institutions in the formative west and of strengthening them in the other states. Popular education has multiplied wants and created tastes which wealth has not been sufficiently distributed to gratify; hence discontent among certain classes, while the conflict with the intemperance element has been drawing nearer than ever to a crisis. There are questions now to America regarding pauperism and crime crowding in great cities, that must be met, and met in a way that will leave such blotches on our civilization as they have done in Europe. All the Christian churches in the land are deeply interested in these problems, and the general conference at Washington in December, is called to consider them.

THE METHODISTS AND TEMPERANCE.

The following resolutions, expressing the sentiments of the Methodist ministers attending the Wisconsin Conference at Appleton, were unanimously passed at yesterday's session:

Resolved, That in the liquor traffic of this country we recognize the greatest enemy of high morality, pure religion and sound political economy. It wastes our resources, violates law, ruins homes, breeds crime and demands the right to dictate legislation and shape the policy of the nation.

That in dealing with this enormous evil regulation has been found a total failure. It involves the surrender of principle, partnership with wrong-doers and compromise with crime. We declare that no government can afford to raise a revenue from the vices of its people, bargain away the joys of home or the peace of the community to him who is willing to pay a license, high or low, for the infamous privilege of running saloons, with their attendant gambling dens and brothels.

In the name of the church we represent, we demand the prohibition of the traffic in intoxicating beverages, and we recommend to all temperance workers that they stand together in this fight for sober manhood and Christian civilization, until this whole saloon system is driven as far from us as the East is from the West.

Resolved, That we pray the next general conference to maintain the high position occupied by its predecessors on temperance and prohibition.

GROWING WEARY.

The President Said to Show Fatigue by the Effect of His Tour.

COMPELLED TO OMIT HAND-SHAKING.

The Party Received with Open Arms at Madison—The Wisconsin Capital Generously Received—Receptions—The President's Tour.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 8.—The President had a short night's rest Tuesday. He returned at 11:30 a. m., and arose at 6 o'clock. His party left at 7 and at 8:30 started for a rapid drive. The drive took in the Soldiers' Home, west of the city, National Avenue, Lake, Reed and West Water streets, through the principal streets in the Seventh ward, and from there to the railway station. The train pulled out for Madison at 10 o'clock.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 8.—The President's train made no stop on the trip between Milwaukee and this city, but showed up at the larger stations in order to give the people a chance to see the President and his wife. When it reached this city a concourse of people greeted the visitors at the Northwestern depot. The cheers were deafening.

The line of march was readily formed and the prearranged parade proceeded. The President and Mrs. Cleveland were in their most gracious mood, and smiled at frequently and courteously to the enthusiastic multitude. In the procession were many of the most prominent citizens of Wisconsin. It was a review of 200,000 when the President reached the east front of the capitol. He reached the platform erected on the portico, a formal welcome was tendered. The park was crowded to the fence 300 feet distant, with a solid wall of humanity, from which frequently thousands of hands were thrown. The formal address of welcome was made by Chief Justice Bransford Cole, of the State Supreme Bench, and was a dignified effort. The President replied briefly to the address of welcome. He spoke to the citizens of Madison and of the State.

President Cleveland was exceedingly weary when he reached this city, but nevertheless he received the reverent public reception in the State House as requested a chair for his wife, who sat on the multitude surged by. The President shook hands for a while, and the moment in which he went to sit down it was a ludicrous imposition on him. He first stood on one foot, then shifted his ponderous weight to the other, and finally, with a high, seething sigh, and a cheerer extended his hand to the thousands passing before him. He looked weary and felt very much so. His hand was swollen and painful from the shaking given in the trip.

For the public reception the President, the Postmaster-General and Governor Rusk drove to the grounds where the county fair is being held, a peripatetic capital, and entered up a temporary habitation for the occasion. The President and his wife were seated on a raised platform, and the multitude of spectators of one boat in the trotting race, where the engine fogged along at a 2300 gals. It was 5:20 o'clock when the distinguished trio reached the Postmaster-General's residence.

Last evening a swell dinner was given at the Vilas residence in honor of the guests. The house was beautifully decorated with flags and garlands. The company included fifteen hundred all told. It was very exclusive, only representatives being present of the Government, State, Federal, Judiciary, Postal Department and State Judiciary. During the evening many distinguished citizens casually dropped in to see the President, and there were serenades by the Madison Municipal Band, brass bands and brass bands.

To-day the party of gentlemen, including Mr. Cleveland, Postmaster-General Vilas and Colonel Lambert, will go back fishing on the lake. Small lunch parties for ladies alone will be given at the Vilas residence, and in the evening a public reception will take place.

Sunday morning the distinguished guests will attend the Episcopal church. Never before were there so many people here. Railway officials say 70,000 tickets were sold to Madison from various points within a radius of 100 miles. Delegations came from all sections, bringing bands, drum corps, banners, flags and trophies, to pay respect to the first Democratic President to visit this city.

The only signs of the Republican Party, as shown by the Republic, that he is aware of the President's visit are the gay decorations at his handsome home on Indiana avenue. They are conspicuous among the decorations of other houses in the vicinity. The General has had no hand in any of the arrangements. Invading his name does not appear on any of them and he was not invited to the dinner given to the President by Postmaster-General Vilas last night. General Fairchild said last night that he had not been invited to take any part in the reception ceremonies. He was at St. Louis and Milwaukee, and was invited to participate in the reception there, but no such courtesies were extended here, and no one attempts any explanation of this omission.

A LOCK OUT.

[Special to the Gazette.]

New York, Oct. 8.—Between three and four thousand brass workers in New York and Brooklyn were locked out by their employers this morning. The workmen demanded more pay and the manufacturers declined to accede to the demand. They anticipated a strike by shutting down their works.

Shall We Eat Meat or Not?

Everybody will tell you now in this section of summer that you ought not to eat so much meat as you have been eating. They say, "Well, we have tried the vegetarian diet and it was no use. It is hard to get in America and it is costly. And we believe anyway that meat is essential to a large degree. Better protect yourself as well as possible by having always within reach some BRANBURY'S PRIZES. A dose of three to ten, according to your bulk, will generally act as a preventive against all illness arising from eating impure food."

An Alabama Woman Put Strichnine in Her Food, Causing Her Death and that of Her Husband and Two Children.

Nassau, N. Y., Oct. 8.—A miserably dog in the bank of the canal at about a mile above here Thursday and caused a disastrous flood. The torrent swept away into the woods, carrying trees and all the waste around to the Nassau river behind. The mill immediately shut down, and there is no telling when they will resume work, as the damage will take weeks to repair. The flood has driven 2,000 employees out of work for an indefinite time.

FAILED FOR HALF A MILLION.

Oglethorpe, Col., Oct. 8.—Oglethorpe & Co., bankers and brokers, made an assignment at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The assignee is Fred L. Allen, of this city. The amount involved is not yet known, but it is believed to be upward of $500,000. The assignment provides for the payment of all just and reasonable claims, salaries of employees, payment in full of deposits in the savings department, and all other debts as far as possible.

New Government for the District. WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—There is a movement on foot among the citizens and property holders of the district to petition Congress at its next session to remodel the present form of government in this city. It is proposed to ask Congress to provide for the appointment by the President of five instead of three district commissioners, one from each of the four sections of the city and one from the residence of the city for not less than five years, and they must be property holders.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 8.—Michael Davitt was in this city Friday on his way to New York. He said that within one year the success or defeat of the movement to liberate Ireland will be determined. He will sail for home next Wednesday. It is his intention to immediately "jump in to work for the cause," but he expects he "will jump in to work."

STOP THAT SINGING!

The School Board Want No More Music in the Grammar Rooms.

They Also Take Steps to Stop the Purchase of Supplemental Readers.

Shall School Books Be Furnished by the City to Indigent Children?

A collision between Superintendent Keyes and the school board was a feature of the board meeting last night.

The collision resulted from a disagreement on the subject of music in the schools. Most of the commissioners thought that in grammar rooms especially the music lessons were taking time from other studies.

Commissioner Holmway therefore moved that in the four grades next below the high school room, all musical instruction be discontinued, and the motion was adopted unanimously.

A out was also made at supplemental readers. These are monthlies, arising from ten to twenty-five cents a year and published especially for use in the schools. They have been introduced into most of the departments in this city and many complaints are made by parents on account of the additional expense.

The board's decision in this matter was that teachers should receive no more money for periodicals of the kind in question and should refund all that was in hand.

When these actions were taken Superintendent Keyes had not yet arrived. He came in some afterwards, however, and was told what had been done.

"I'm very sorry," he said, "especially about the music. Our music lessons do more to rest the scholars and give them strength than anything else we can do. The time taken is paid back many times over. And besides that the results obtained are valuable in an educational way. Over eighty-five per cent of the children are becoming good singers. I had hoped that the steps already taken would finally lead to a systematic course of musical instruction such as the pupils of other city schools get, and I can't help feeling that to-night's action will prove to be a great mistake."

"As for the supplementary reading," he continued, "our text books on that subject as now arranged give one hundred and fifty pages for a year's work. New material is absolutely necessary in order to get the best results. This new material can be given in pamphlet form cheaper than in any other, but it should certainly be given in one form or another or the children will suffer."

Commissioner Holmway—"I move we adjourn."

And adjourn they did. Before the music discussion came up a report was made on the matter of furnishing books to indigent children. Several applications were read, but the board declined to take any action, as to do so might set down the bars for other cases that were not deserving.

Miss Jennie Metcalf's salary was increased from forty-five to fifty dollars, Miss Metcalf having been changed from second grammar work to first grammar.

—Druggists are putting cough syrup labels on the bottles of cholera mixture and working up their left-over fly-paper into liver-pads.

—Holmstead's armistice was the small boys' Mecca yesterday afternoon. Bert was closing the reason by dispensing free water.

—Miss Hattie Benedict has been employed to give weekly music lessons in the high school. The lessons are paid for by subscription.

—The Rev. Mr. Lawson, of Albany, Green county, will occupy the pulpit at the First M. E. church on Sunday morning and evening.

—All those who want to put down this great evil of intemperance should hear Mary A. Livermore's lecture, which will take place in Cannon's hall next Thursday evening.

—A new roof must soon be put on the high school. Why not put in new walls and two or three new doors? The cellar might, perhaps, answer very well just as it is.

—In this issue of the Gazette will be found a notice of great interest to delinquent taxpayers. City Treasurer Murphy desires all to take timely warning, and govern themselves accordingly.

—All those that went to Madison unite in pronouncing Mrs. Cleveland remarkably handsome woman. The president himself, it is said by many to resemble the late James Church in his Sunday clothes.

—The Sons of Veterans held a pleasant social dancing party last evening at the hall of W. H. Sargent Post No. 20, G. A. R. The attendance of young people was quite large and the evening was most enjoyably spent.

—Col. Nicholas Smith, editor of the Gazette, is confined to his home, on High street, by sickness. He was taken suddenly ill at the capital on Wednesday and removed to his hotel, recovering sufficiently to be returned home yesterday. He is slowly regaining his former strength.

—A committee of prohibitionists met Thursday afternoon at the office of Wm. Street, Esq., to make arrangements for holding a county conference in this city October 14, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Hon. T. C. Richmond, of Madison, will give a public address in the evening, at which all are invited to be present.

—Interviews with most of the business men on Milwaukee and Main streets, indicate that business is unexpectedly good. Notwithstanding the dry summer, the trade for September was better than at the same time last year by fully twenty per cent.

—There was a good attendance last evening at the second annual party given by the Knights of Labor in Apollo hall, and everything passed off to the perfect satisfaction of all the participants.

Smith's orchestra furnished the music and the dance was continued until a late hour in the morning.

—More attention is to be paid in the schools hereafter to the happenings of the day. At the end of each year pupils will be examined on leading events of the twelve months past. The plan was proposed by Superintendent Keyes, he thinking that children should know at least as much about their own times as they do of their great-grand-fathers, if not more.

—It is rumored that several business blocks will be heated by steam this winter. The occupants will club together to put in the boilers and other apparatus believing it to be much cheaper and more comfortable than the stove or hot air. Mills Brothers are now making estimates to furnish several business blocks with steam heating apparatus.

—The committee of W. H. Sargent Post No. 20, G. A. R., is busy completing the details for their annual camp fire which is to take place in Kildas armory on the evening of Friday, October 21st. Phil. Cheek, Jr., will be the orator of the evening, and other first class specialties will be provided to make the occasion one of interest to all who attend.

—Samuel Cleland, of Center, had his pocket picked of something over sixty dollars at Madison yesterday. Another man started with three times that amount done up in a roll in his pocket but finally decided to leave it with Treasurer Moore, of the State Fair association. Two hours afterwards his pockets were picked and everything taken that was of the slightest value. His precaution saved him from a heavy loss.

A DISTINGUISHED VISITOR.

William K. Vanderbilt Says Good Morning to Janesville.

More "dilly dally" was represented in town to-day than has been for a long time past. The cause of the morose was the arrival of William K. Vanderbilt.

A special train, luxuriously furnished, pulled into the Northwestern yard about half past ten and one car was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt, President Marvin Haight of the Northwestern road and General Superintendent Whitcomb.

The train was made up of two Pullman and two private cars, one the director's and the other Mr. Vanderbilt's.

At this city the train was boarded by Division Superintendent Scott, of Barnaboo. It left a few minutes before eleven for St. Paul and Duluth.

COMING EVENTS.

—"Alone in London" will be here one week from next Tuesday.

—Don't fail to secure your seats daily for the Model Comedy Co. at Lappin's Opera house Monday evening.

—"Flirtation" will be the play at Lappin's Opera house Monday evening.

—Everybody is going to Lappin's opera house Monday evening to see Egan and Wall.

—"In Spite of All" the play in which Miss Madden will be seen at Myers' opera house next Wednesday evening is by Steele Mackaye, Esq., author of "Hazel Kirke."

—Since Miss Madden's last appearance at Myers' opera house, she has been to the Pacific slope where the severe critics of San Francisco felt willing captives. She will no doubt receive a royal welcome on next Wednesday evening.

—Wednesday [will be] Miss Madden's last appearance in Janesville for some time, as she sails for Europe May 1st. Opening with her great play "In Spite of All" at the Theatre Comique, London, June 20th. She will carry with her the good wishes of the entire land for her success and prosperity.

FUN FOR THE PEOPLE.

The Model Comedy Company will open a week's engagement at Lappin's opera house Monday evening, in Bartley Campbell's great comedy comedy, "Flirtation," Tuesday; "The Bachelor," Wednesday; "The Private Secretary," Thursday; "For Another Crime," Friday; "Galley Slave," Saturday; matinee, "Farther than the Crick," Saturday night, "Confusion." An angry complexion made Nellie a fright. Her face was all pimply and red. Though her features were good, and her eyes were bright.

"What a shame it is!" she said.

But now, by magic, pale Nellie has grown as fair as an artist's bright dream. Her face is as sweet as a flower in bloom. Her eyes are like blue pools and clear.

As Nellie walks out in the fair morning light, she looks like a vision every eye. And as for the people who called her a fright, "What a shame it is!" they cry.

And the reason of the change is that Nellie took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which regulated her liver, cleared her complexion, made her blood pure, her breath sweet, her face fair and rosy, and removed the defects that had obscured her beauty. Sold by druggists.

THE WEATHER.

"ZWEI LAGER."

A Capital Advertising Campaign for Best's Milwaukee Brewery.

Kaiser Wilhelm Must Take a Back Seat for President Cleveland.

A Beautiful Picture for the Coming Generation to Look Upon.

The following pen-cartoon is from the Milwaukee Sentinel—we mistake the foresight and business tact of the proprietors of Best's brewery, if the scene here so graphically depicted is not handsomely engraved, and circulated as the leading social picture of the time.

"President Cleveland and party stopped at Best's brewery on their way from Schiltz park to the exposition. Capt. Fabst was on hand to escort the party through the great establishment. The only person at first admitted, beside President Cleveland and the mayor, was a Sentinel reporter. As soon, however, as the carriages containing the others arrived, the doors were thrown open and the public admitted. The first department visited was the ice factory. The president stood in silent admiration of the ponderous engines and condensers while Capt. Fabst explained to him that since the introduction of the ice machines it had not been necessary for them to cut a pound of ice for cooling purposes. From there the president was escorted into another room, where a new kind of an ice machine was at work. The party was then taken into a private office where, after introducing the gentleman employed there to the president, Capt. Fabst inquired whether Mr. Cleveland would take a glass of beer.

"With pleasure," was the response, and but a moment elapsed before the chief magistrate of the greatest republic on earth, held in his hand a glass, filled with the foaming beverage that has done much toward making Milwaukee famous, "fresh from the wood." After the glasses were filled all round, Capt. Fabst proposed the toast "To the president of the United States," which was drunk amid profound silence, all standing with heads uncovered. While this little scene was being enacted in the office of the brewery, the carriages containing Dr. Joseph Bryant and Wilson S. Bassell, of Buffalo, who are traveling with the presidential party, members of the citizens' committee, Janesville club, city and county government, drove up to the door and deposited their loads and the doors leading to the apartment were thrown open to admit all who desired to come in. Glasses were filled once more and the health of the president of the United States was drunk with a hearty cheer. The register was asked for his signature. Taking up a plain cedar penholder he inscribed in a small, neat hand, "Grover Cleveland Washington, D. C."

"IN SPITE OF ALL."

Minnie Madden's new play is winning her enthusiastic praise. The New York Times of a recent date contains the following:

When we come to speak of the acting of this play we have to deal with the unique qualities which Miss Madden, for the second time in New York presents, and which are unfortunately for the stage, very rare indeed. These qualities are an exquisite sensibility and the power of presenting womanly pathos in a way which seizes the universal heart, so that the man she loves were to be a brute, she would still be able to win his love, and that he had deserted her in a moment for another woman, she stood alone in the middle of the stage, lifted her eyes and clasped hands, and in one great paroxysm of despair, she would cry out, "I am alone!" and fall swooning to the floor. No amount of theatrical culture or stage tradition or academic rule could have enhanced this scene one iota. It was the outcome of a woman's heart.

FOR A GOOD CAUSE.

Last Night's Entertainment at the Wayside Inn.

A large number of ladies and gentlemen visited the Wayside Inn last evening and partook of the excellent oyster supper prepared under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Shurtlett.

The supper concluded the literary and musical programme was introduced on an hour or two was profitably spent in listening to music rendered by pupils from the Blind Institution, vocal and instrumental, and readings by Miss Emma Clark, Mrs. J. C. Cook and Miss Alice Walker also favored the audience with a duet.

The entertainment throughout was very entertaining, and those who took the several parties received much merited credit for their pains taking. While those who attended received more than their money's worth, the managers of the Inn received quite an addition to their bank account to assist in "tidying over" a dull time. More just such entertainments would greatly please the public.
